Arrival in Kansas.

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 23.—The train bearing the body of the late Senator Plumb arrived here early this morning. Those who formed an escort were Governor Humphrey of Kansas and his staff and officers of the State, Timothy McCarthy, department commander of the G. A. R. of Kansas, and his staff, and delegations from the various posts of Kansas. The pall-bearers were Mayor Hannon and members of the City Council of Kansas City, Kansas, a committee of representative men of that city and a detachment of the Metropolitan Police. Governor Humphrey formally received the body from the Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate.

The pall-bearers took the casket from the car and took their places in the procession which had been formed on the platform. The procession moved quickly to a special train on the Santa Fe Railway. There the casket was placed on a bier in the funeral car, which was appropriately and profusely draped in black. A guard of the G. A. R. was placed in charge of the car and the train left for Topeka at 10 o'clock.

From South America.

LONDON, Dec. 23.—A dispatch was received in this city to-day from Buenos Ayres saying reports are current there that political troubles in the Brazilian State of Rio Grande have broken out again and disorders have taken place in various parts of the State where the civil military authorities attempted to suppress the Independents. The movement is spreading rapidly.

Mineral Suit.

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—Jerry Collins and Patrick J. Haggerty owned three mines in Colorado and certain patents in February, 1888, which they transferred to lawyer O'Neill in trust, for the purpose of transferring the property to a corporation which was to be formed. The Hecla Consolidated Gold Mining Company organized and incorporated on August 24th last with a capital of $1,250,000. O'Neill then refused to transfer the property and the company sued him. He stated he held the property to secure repayment for his services as trustee. The company moved in the Supreme Court for judgment on O'Neill's answer, and the decision was reversed.

Dynamite Explosion.

ANTWERP, Dec. 23.—The city was startled this morning by a tremendous explosion of dynamite that shook the earth. A cargo of dynamite which was being discharged from a lugger into a lighter exploded, shattering one vessel and sinking the other. Twenty men, who were employed on the vessel, were either instantly killed or blown into the water where they were drowned.

The first reports concerning the dynamite explosion were exaggerated. It is now ascertained that only two lives were lost.

Neglect of Duty.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—The President to-day issued an order for the removal of Samuel D. Warmcastle, Collector of Internal Revenue for the Twenty-third District of Pennsylvania, at Pittsburgh, and designating Deputy Collector Mitchell to perform the duties temporarily. Warmcastle is charged with neglect of duty.

A Factory Burned.

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—John Chatillon & Son's scale factory was burned this morning. Loss, $115,000; fully insured.

Congressional.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—The Democratic sections of the House this morning were early filled with members upon whose faces there was a look of anxiety, expectancy and curiosity. Little groups gathered here and there, were discussing the probability and possibility of committee composition. Although a great deal of credence was placed in the productions, heretofore made by the press, there was a general feeling of uncertainty which could be dispelled only by the official announcement of the Speaker. Soon after the House convened the Speaker announced the memberships as appointed by him. The reading of the assignments was listened to attentively, but without any manifestation of approval or disapproval.

Memorandum of the Speaker announced the death of his predecessor, Lee, and as a mark of respect the House adjourned to meet on January 5th.

SENATE.

In the Senate, in the absence of the President, Manderson occupied the chair.

Among the bills introduced and referred are by Sherman, to amend the Nicaragua ship canal act. Two messages from the President of the United States were presented and read and appropriately referred; one as to the arrangement and operation of the electric wires in the District of Columbia, and the other as to the uniform usage by all departments of the government in spelling geographical names.

After a short executive session the Senate adjourned until Tuesday, January 5th.

Steamer Ashore.

LONDON, Dec. 23.—The Danish steamer, Island, from New York for Stettin, Copenhagen, is ashore at Nidingen, near Githsburg. She is leaky. Assistance has been sent to her and her passengers are being landed.

Warehouse Burned.

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 23.—A fire to-day destroyed Baker & Hamilton's warehouse with its stock of agricultural implements. Total loss, $38,000; insured.

HAY MEASUREMENT.

What a Well-Known Farmer Thinks About It.

EDITOR GAZETTE: In reference to Secretary Rusk's communication to Mr. D. Huffer regarding the measurement of hay, it does not define anything more than the number of cubic feet which make a ton of hay. It does not say how we are to get the number of cubic feet in the stack, and this seems to be the principal point. If it did do so, the rule would not be perfect, as one stack of hay will weigh more than a like stack of the same dimensions. How, then, are we to get the number of cubic feet in a stack of hay? Now, it is a well-known fact that no person can square a stack of hay accurately. That being conceded, there is no rule that will give nearer to the number of tons in a stack of hay than the one-third rule as known in this valley, and consequently this is the rule that should be maintained. It has answered our purpose for twenty years back, and why depart from it now? Simply to please those who buy the hay?

There is no blame for cattlemen buying hay as cheap as they can, but they should not expect 2,500 pounds (and in some cases more) of hay for one ton now. My experience in farming is that we must have $7 per ton for hay in order that we may be able to meet our demands, and when we sell for less than the $7 per ton we run behind that much let it be more or less. The only remedy, then, is for the farmers to combine and see that justice is done them, and not for any other purpose. They can establish a rule by which they will be governed, and in all cases let the majority rule. They can meet annually and discuss the matter. If in their judgment they conclude to lower the price of hay, well and good, but in no case would I be willing to raise the price of hay more than the $7 above mentioned. Every man, woman and child in this community (I mean Reno as well as the farming community) is directly or indirectly interested in the welfare of the farmers. It might be said that the farmers could get along without the town of Reno, but Reno cannot get along or thrive very much without the farmers.

Consequently, Mr. Editor, you will readily perceive that we are all sailing in the same boat, which is bound to sink unless justice is done to the farmers. These are my views on the above mixed question, and I would like to hear the views of some of my farmer friends. It will do no harm to discuss the matter publicly. I feel satisfied that the GAZETTE will cheerfully open its columns to the opinion of all of the farmers on the subject.

Truckee Meadows, Dec. 23, 1891.

The columns of the GAZETTE are open to any one who wishes to be heard on the subject.

Fire at Martine.

MARTINEZ (Cal.), Dec. 23.—Early this morning a fire broke out in a Chinese laundry on Main street adjoining the Commercial Hotel. A heavy wind was blowing and it appeared for a time as if the town would be destroyed. Owing to a lack of pressure of the water, the fire could not be controlled in time, and the Commercial Hotel was burned to the ground, with the tailor and barber shops adjoining. The buildings across the street were badly scorched and the windows broken, but the flames were finally gotten under control. The losses are about $13,000, the principal losers being J. Ipswitch of the Commercial Hotel and J. Rankin, who owned the adjoining buildings. The insurance on their property is about $8,000.

Free Coinage Committee.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—An inquiry into the records of the members of the House Committee on Coinage, Weights and Measures, shows by past utterances or votes nine out of thirteen members of the committee have declared in favor of free coinage. While the three other members were outspoken against free coinage, the fourth is said to be unquestionably against free coinage. The members in favor of free coinage are Bland of Missouri, Williams of Illinois, Kilgore of Texas, Robertson of Louisiana, Pierce of Tennessee, Eppe, of Virginia, McHeigan of Nebraska, Bartine of Nevada, and John of North Dakota. Those opposed are Tracy of New York, Williams of Massachusetts, Taylor of Illinois, and Stone of Pennsylvania.

Bonaparte Divorce Case.

LONDON, Dec. 23.—The Bonaparte divorce case came up for further hearing yesterday. Justice Jaune decided when the case first came up that the petition should be so amended as to include the charge of adultery, and ordered if the petition was not so amended, it should be taken on file. When the case was called the petitioner failed to amend her petition as directed by Court. Prince Louis Clovis Bonaparte then presented a counter petition, asking for the dissolution of his marriage to the petitioner, as the ceremony was void by reason of the woman's first husband being still living.

A Stormy Voyage.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 23.—The steamship City of Pueblo arrived this morning from Puget Sound, and reports being struck by a heavy sea off Cape Flattery, which badly battered vessel and shifted the cargo. Three men were severely injured, one having his ribs and arm broken.

An English Fog.

LONDON, Dec. 23.—A dense fog prevailed in Yorkshire yesterday and all traffic had to be suspended. In Leeds two men lost their lives in consequence of the fog.

Field's Illness.

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—A writ of habeas corpus, granted by Judge Dockman of Westchester county, was served on Sheriff Gorman to-day, directing him to produce Edward M. Field before the commission appointed to inquire into his sanity at White Plains. The physician at the Ludlow Street Jail, however, said Field was too ill to be moved, and the Sheriff notified the commission. It was therefore agreed that the inquiry should go on without the presence of the prisoner.

WHITE PLAINS, Dec. 23.—The case of Field came before the Commissioner in Lunacy, to-day, and after the testimony of a number of witnesses had been heard, the jury returned a verdict declaring Edward M. Field a lunatic and not responsible for his actions.

The New Government.

QUEBEC, Dec. 23.—An extra of the Official Gazette was published to-day dissolving the legislature and making the appointment of another Royal Commission to investigate further the alleged hooding by the late government. Nominations will be made on March 1st, and voting on March 8th, the writ returnable on the 15th. The legislature is called for April 7th.

Sent to Bloomingdale.

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—Mrs. Ada Thorpe Loftus, who, according to the statement of Rudolph V. Martinseff, came to this country for the purpose of "removing" President Harrison, was sent to the Bloomingdale asylum this morning, having been pronounced insane. She arrived on the Britannica last Sunday and put up at a Fifth Avenue hotel.

Irish Politics.

DUBLIN, Dec. 23.—This is a great day in the battle for supremacy between the rival factions in the Irish Parliamentary Party. It is conceded that the election which takes place in Waterford to-day is the decisive struggle in the Irish fight, and upon it will depend the future course of the factions. There is no disorder.

Minuteman Dying.

To Protect Railroad Employees.

AMONG the many good suggestions to Congress found in the President's message, the following strikes us as one of the best:

"I have twice before called the attention of Congress to the necessity of legislation for the protection of the lives of railroad employees, but nothing has yet been done. During the year ending June 30th, 1890, 969 brakemen were killed and 7,841 maimed, while engaged in coupling cars. The total number of railroad employees killed during this year was 2,451, and the number injured 22,590. This is a cruel and largely a needless sacrifice. The government is spending nearly one million dollars annually to save the lives of ship-wrecked seamen. Every steam vessel is rigidly inspected and required to adopt the most approved safety appliances. All this is good, but how shall we excuse the lack of interest and effort in behalf of this army of brave young men, who in our land commerce are being sacrificed every year by the continued use of antiquated and dangerous appliances. A law requiring of every railroad engaged in interstate commerce the equipment each year of a given per cent. of its freight cars with automatic couplers to be used, would very soon and very greatly reduce the present fearful death rate among railroad employees."

THE Carson News, the Capital's lively little paper, has had its first birthday. It says in answer to predictions that it would not live a month: "To-day this paper stands without an equal in Ormsby county, either for circulation or advertising capabilities. During the past six months the News has been enlarged on two separate occasions, and now it is not only the leading paper, but also the largest published at the Capital."

A little telegraph would help the News, and we believe the people would sustain it liberally for the outlay.

SOME good people seem very much disturbed by the news that Dr. Keeley is making more than a million a year clear profit out of his treatment of the unduly bibulous by his bichloride of gold process. They are not exactly envious, but they wish to know if "it is right?"

Why not? If Dr. Keeley succeeds in restoring to a normal condition of mind and body even one-tenth of the persons who go to him for treatment, will he not net millions to the nation? The laborer is worthy of his hire.

The Homer Index comes this morning printed on purple paper, and we took it for granted that Captain Townsend had been caught out by the storm, but it seems there is method in his madness for he says: "According to our usual custom we print the Index on colored paper to remind delinquent subscribers that the year is about up."

We think red or blue would have been more appropriate, for it would have given the delinquents a gentle hint of what they might expect in the next world unless they paid up for their local paper.

CONGRESS has been busily engaged in preliminary work thus far, organizing committees, receiving reports, introducing bills, etc. Senator Turpie, of Indiana, has had time to make an interesting speech upon the election of United States Senators by the people direct. His State favors it and he supports it. He said the Legislatures at first elected the Governor and Members of Congress, but it was changed.

This is the way the Homer Index puts it: "Next Friday will be Christmas. Be merry and joyful. Have a good time if you can. Be good to yourselves while you live, for you'll be a long time dead. May the good Lord love us and not call for us too soon."

WARRANTS are out in Carson for the arrest of a lot of courtesans and their male admirers engaged in the disgraceful row that took place in the early hours of yesterday morning in that city. Will the News still throw its filth this way we wonder?

THE SHORTEST WILL.

Is Recalled by Another Short One Recently Probated in Pennsylvania.

"I read in a New York paper the other day," said a former member of the bar of Luzerne county, Pa., "an item about a will recently admitted to probate in McKeesport, which only contained twenty-four words, and which, the item stated, was unique among wills, because of its brevity. I was reminded by this that the shortest will on record is one on file in the office of the Register of Luzerne county. That will, including the signature, contains but nine words. It was written with a lead pencil on a half sheet of note paper, and is as follows:

"Emily R. Miner is my heir."

"SARAH K. MINER.
"The will when found was enclosed in an envelope, which was indorsed: 'Read this when I am dead.' The maker of the will was a blind woman, and was famous in her day as the 'Blind Poetess of the Wyoming.' She is a daughter of Tom Charles Miner, whose 'History of the Wyoming Valley' is among the rarest and most valuable local histories ever written. He was also the ablest and best-known journalist in Pennsylvania half a century ago. He founded the Village Record of Westchester, Pa., and subsequently the Miner's Record, in Wilkesbarre. He represented the West Chester district in congress several terms, and was one of the first to develop the anthracite coal interests of the Lehigh and Wyoming valleys.

"Miss Miner, his daughter, who died in 1874, was blind from childhood, and learned to read by touching the wood types in her father's printing office. She was the first person admitted to the Pennsylvania institution for the blind who could read before entering. She early developed poetical genius, and the earlier magazines and periodicals contain many of her contributions. She was possessed of a marvelous memory, and when her father was collecting data for his proposed history of Wyoming she accompanied him on his visits to surviving pioneers of the bloody days of the valley, listened to their narratives, and recited them word for word to her father on returning home, while he put them upon paper. Some of these are strikingly graphic and stirring in their language. Her will, although it disposed of large and valuable interests, and although there were many heirs at law, was admitted to probate without question. The legatee was a favorite niece of Miss Miner."

STRANGE WAVES.

A Remarkable Marine Phenomenon in Algeria Twenty Years Ago.

The mysterious wave which did so much damage to life and limb and to the steamship Etruria, recently, properly belongs to that class of physical phenomena for which there is as yet no satisfactory explanation, unless it be that of submarine earthquakes. Whatever the cause, says the Chicago Times, certain it is that they have taken place time and again and always caused much damage, on account of their sudden and unexpected appearance and the awful power wielded while they last. One of the worst known occurred in the year 1809. It was the first day of November, and the people of Oran, Algeria, had been experiencing beautiful weather. No breeze was blowing and the harbor was stirred by scarcely a ripple. Even after it was all over, mariners on vessels lying a few miles out from shore said no storm of any kind had been experienced, yet the people on shore suddenly noticed the approach of a tide of unparalleled height and violence which submerged the coast line far beyond the ordinary mark and destroyed in its course much valuable property. On the tide's ebbing, when the danger was supposed to be over, great submarine billows broke over the harbor and coast and beat furiously against the splendid new mole lately constructed for the protection of the port for the space of thirty-six hours. Receding, the immense waves uncovered the foundations of the mole to the depth of eight yards below the ordinary water level, and, advancing, broke high over the vessels within the harbor, some of them sending their spray clean over Fort Lamono—that is to say, more than one hundred yards high. These terrible shocks, repeated with regularity every minute, soon racked and rent the pier on the sea side; in the space of a few hours great fissures on the top and on the side next the town became visible and its total destruction was seen to be inevitable. Before evening scarcely a vestige remained of the once splendid mole, which, on the morning of the same day, measured nine hundred yards in length and seemed to be able to resist the storms of many centuries.

sig Model of a Honey-Bee.

The model of a honey-bee, measuring four and a half feet from snout to sting and six feet across the wings, has been received from Paris by the biological department of the university of Pennsylvania. It is intended for the instruction of the students. The insect is perfectly articulated, and the wings, head, thorax and abdomen can be taken apart with the fingers. Moreover, the head may be opened so as to display the brain within. Every organ, artery, sinew and tissue has been delicately reproduced, and the bee is to be dissected at lectures by Prof. Charles S. Doolley for the information of the students. A huge snail and beetle, each about three feet long, have also been added to the biological department. Emile Deyrolle is the maker of these singular models.

He Knew His Business.

During a recent visit of the prince of Wales to Doncaster his royal highness and a friend, says a writer in the London Star, went out for a stroll near Wentworth house and came across a miner accompanied by a brace of bull pups. Wishing to appear sociable, the prince's friend asked how much he had paid for them. "Two quid," was the laconic reply. H. R. H. looked them over critically, and remarked: "Don't you think two pigs would have been a better investment for you, my good man?" "Happen so," replied the collier; "but, mister, what a blooming fool a chap would look going a rattin' wid two pigs."

MISCELLANEOUS.

Make No Mistake

If you decide, from what you have heard of its cures or read of its merits, that you will take Hood's Sarsaparilla, do not be induced to buy something else which may be claimed to be "about the same" or "just as good." Remember that the sole reason for efforts to get you to purchase some substitute is that more profit may be made. Firmly resist all inducements, and insist upon having just what you called for, Hood's Sarsaparilla. Then you will not be experimenting with a new article, for Hood's Sarsaparilla is Tried and True.

"In one store the clerk tried to induce me to buy their own instead of Hood's Sarsaparilla. But he could not prevail on me to change. I told him I knew what Hood's Sarsaparilla was, I had taken it, was perfectly satisfied with it, and did not want any other." Mrs. ELLA A. GORE, 61 Terrace Street, Boston, Mass.

Novel and Terrible Battle Between Rival Missouri "Cow Punchers."

A teamster for a sawmill company, which operates in the bottoms near Chillicothe, brings a report of a queer duel that was fought recently, says the St. Joseph News.

For some time there has been bad blood between James Stevens and William Graham. The trouble originally arose over the relative merits of the two men as drivers of "bull whips," each claiming to be the best in the section. The matter was kept within the bounds of a wordy war until the other day, when it was decided to settle the matter by a fight with bull whips.

These are dangerous weapons in the hands of an expert. They have a total length of about fifteen feet, and when well handled, the wielder can take a strip of hide from the flank of a bullock at every pop.

The preliminaries were all arranged and the men were given plenty of room in which to circulate. There were no seconds and the understanding was that the men should fight until one cried "enough." The employees of the mill ranged themselves in a circle about one hundred feet in diameter and the men were told to go in and fight.

They approached within fifteen feet of each other and halted. Then both began circling the long whips over their heads, waiting for an opportunity to give a cut. Graham was the first to try, but his blow was dodged by Stevens, who also sent his lash wide of the mark. This was repeated several times when Stevens sent his lash directly at the handle of Graham's whip, and by a quick twist tore it from his grasp.

Graham quickly recovered his weapon, but not before Stevens gave him two fearful lashes, one drawing blood from his back and the other tearing a strip out of his trousers' leg. The pain so enraged Graham that he made a savage onslaught on Stevens, cutting him twice, once across the face.

Stevens kept his temper and again caught Graham's whip, but before the latter could recover it he was whipped about the head and face until he was completely blinded and at the mercy of his antagonist, who lashed him into insensibility before he cried for mercy.

NAUGHTY GIRLS AS STRIKERS.

High Kickers of the East Refuse to Kick When Most Needed.

At some of the great Hindoo temples in India it is the custom, handed down from immemorial ages, to keep a permanent staff of dancing girls on the premises, says the London Globe. These light-limbed damsels take a prominent part in the religious ceremonies, jiggling it gayly when directed by the priests. In return they not only receive handsome salaries but are entitled to many privileges, and the place is consequently eagerly sought for by the naughty sisterhood. But they do not lay claim to any particular color of sanctity; rather the contrary, indeed, if travelers' tales may be believed. Decidedly high spirited and great sticklers for their professional rights, the young ladies brook no priestly interference with their private recreations; so long as they dance gracefully when called upon they consider that their part of the contract is fulfilled. Unhappily the demon of discord has entered into this happy family. In an evil hour the priests of a famous temple in the Madras presidency lately determined to reduce the emoluments of their dancing assistants, which had gradually grown beyond all reasonable bounds. But they little reckoned what would follow; within twenty-four hours every one of the fair boys went on strike, and as a particular grand ceremony had to be performed just then, to which dancing was a necessary accessory, the holy men themselves had to prance about, much to the edification of pious worshippers. That one lesson sufficed; in the course of a day or two the retrenchment decree was rescinded, leaving the victory with the fair rebels.

Old Silver Dollars.

A few days ago a score of bright silver dollars bearing dates from 1833 to 1830 were sent to the Economy bank in Philadelphia, and they have a history.

When Father Rapp was the patriarch of Economy there appeared this was in 1830—a man who styled himself Count Leo Pioli. He brought with him thirty German followers, and the whole party were received into the society. Pioli was a plausible scamp, with a talent for intrigue, and he soon had the good brothers by the ears. One day he demanded for himself and his clique half of the society's funds. To get rid of the fellow Father Rapp turned over to him one hundred thousand dollars, and Pioli took himself off with the money and set up a rival society at Philadelphia.

This came to grief and when the funds of the colonists ran low Pioli planned a raid on the treasures of Economy. Somebody warned the good Father Rapp, who, with the nine trustees, buried the wealth of the society. The raiders came, but only to be routed by women of the settlement. The money, recently deposited in the Economy bank was only a part of the store, the place of concealment of which is known only to the trustees of to-day, who in turn will disclose the secret to their successors.

The average Atlantic steamer is manned by about one hundred and fifty men, as follows: Thirty-two deck hands, four officers, nine petty officers, thirty-two firemen, etc., eight engineers and sixty-five stewards. The master and chief officials—that is, mates, engineers—are chosen by the owners or managers, while the remainder of the crew are chosen by the captain. First-class ships muster from twelve to fifteen men in each watch, and all of these are shipped as seamen.

The Tasman Sea.

A new name has been given to a part of the Pacific ocean. A sort of a basin is formed by the east coast of Australia and Tasmania, New Zealand and the western islands of the Polynesian groups which, in the opinion of Australian geographers, should have a distinctive name. The Australian Association for the Advancement of Science has accordingly given to this basin the name of Tasman sea, and the English admiralty has ordered that the name be inserted upon the admiralty charts.

"August Flower"

Mrs. Sarah M. Black of Seneca, Mo., during the past two years has been affected with Neuralgia of the Head, Stomach and Womb, and writes: "My food did not seem to strengthen me at all and my appetite was very variable. My face was yellow, my head dull, and I had such pains in my left side. In the morning when I got up I would have a flow of mucus in the mouth, and a bad, bitter taste. Sometimes my breath became short, and I had such queer, tumbling, palpitating sensations around the heart. I ached all day under the shoulder blades, in the left side, and down the back of my limbs. It seemed to be worse in the wet, cold weather of Winter and Spring; and whenever the spells came on, my feet and hands would turn cold, and I could get no sleep at all. I tried everywhere, and got no relief before using August Flower. Then the change came. It has done me a wonderful deal of good during the time I have taken it and is working a complete cure."

THE TASTE OF BLOOD.

An Incident Showing How Tigers Become Man Eaters.

In the village of Hebool, in Ankara subdivision of the district of Kanara, a large tiger was killed under the following strange and tragic circumstances: Shortly after sunset a woman of the cultivating class was gathering fallen fruit under a small clump of mango trees on the edge of a rice field not more than one hundred paces from her dwelling. Suddenly from a shallow, ditch which ran close by the spot a tiger, which had apparently stalked the woman under its cover, sprang on her, seized her by the back of the neck and bore her to the ground, says the Times of India. Her shrieks of agony brought out a neighbor whose house was not more than fifty paces away, and who then saw the tiger standing on the high ground above the ditch at some little distance from the body of his victim. There the animal seems to have remained until the arrival of the patrol and a Mohammedan with a loaded gun. They heard the outcry of the first witness from where they were sitting in the patel's house, no less than a quarter of a mile distant.

The Mohammedan, with commendable promptitude, coolness and pluck, succeeded in stealing near enough to the tiger to kill him with one shot. An examination of the corpse showed no other mark of injury save those caused by the teeth of the tiger. He had lingered neither to drink the blood nor taste the flesh. For some time past he had been freely slaughtering cattle in the neighborhood, but he had never attacked a human being, and was apparently unprovoked and in good health.

May it not, then, be fairly surmised, asks a correspondent, that in the uncertain light, owing to the dark dress and stooping posture of the unfortunate woman, the tiger mistook her for a quadruped, and was himself for the moment taken aback and alarmed at his own act? That he would soon have recovered himself and returned to his meal had he been undisturbed there can be no doubt.

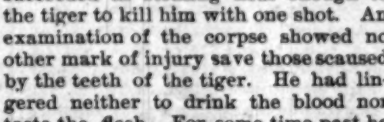

A Check on Telephone Talk.

The present system of charges for the use of telephones by annual subscription is by many considered unjust, inasmuch as some subscribers speak often and much, whereas others use the telephone only occasionally. In some German telephone offices an electrically driven clock is attached to each telephone, which will work as long as the telephone is off the hook, and stops directly it is replaced. The service is charged for according to the time recorded. It is claimed for this system that unnecessary conversations are prevented, that those that take place are limited to reasonable length and the useful efficiency of the whole installation is increased.—Electricity.

The Wily Mongolian.

An artful Chinaman was recently arrested in Tucson, A. T., as an invader. He had accumulated seven thousand dollars, as the product of several years' labor in Mexico. Deeming this sum sufficient to give him ease and comfort for life in the flowery land of his birth, he sent his earnings to China, then crossed to Arizona, with the hope that the United States authorities would arrest him under the Chinese exclusion law and send him to China at the expense of the government. The wily Mongolian's design was to save his passage money.

MANY SUCH.

A group of mechanics was seated in the engine-room when one said: "How was it Tom?" "I was caught up, slipped against the ceiling and whirled down to the floor. I lay there like one dead, and every muscle was sprained. I was cured in one day." What cured him?
